

Enhanced Online Survey Capabilities

Our online surveys team is busy conducting studies in the US and globally. We have grown our panels significantly in the last few weeks and are finding that engagement and completion rates are excellent and that it is still good time to conduct online research. We are following global news carefully and taking guidance from industry bodies.

We apply our experience and track our panelists' behaviors in our new COVID-19 world, particularly in health care, to provide open and sensible project feasibility consulting.
